

1. What is the total number of transactions in the dataset?
2. What is the total transaction amount and total fraud amount?
3. How many fraudulent transactions were detected?
4. What is the fraud percentage out of total transactions?
5. Which transaction type has the highest number of fraudulent transactions?
6. Which payment method is most frequently involved in fraud?
7. Which customer age group experiences the highest fraud rate?
8. Which gender has the highest number of fraudulent transactions?
9. Which location (state/city/region) has the highest fraud cases?
10. How does fraud vary across different transaction channels (Online, ATM, POS, Mobile Banking)?
11. During which month were the highest fraud cases reported?
12. Which day of the week records the highest number of fraud transactions?
13. What is the average transaction amount for fraudulent transactions?
14. Which merchant category is most vulnerable to fraud?
15. Compare legitimate transactions with fraudulent transactions using a visual chart.
16. Which time of day (Morning, Afternoon, Evening, Night) records the highest fraud activity?
17. How do slicers (Date, Region, Payment Method, Transaction Type) help users analyze fraud?
18. Which KPI cards are displayed on the dashboard, and what business value do they provide?
19. What are the top 5 high-risk transaction types or locations based on fraud count?
20. What business insights and recommendations can be derived from the dashboard?